Flynn Declares He Does Not Want Suspect Held by New York Police

Importance Attached to Identity Of Victim of Bomb Explosion

(By Associated Press)
New York, September 20.—The body of the one victim of the Wall Street explosion which had remained unidentified was recognized at the morgue today by Mrs. Olive Kehrer, of Brooklyn, as her son, Elmer Wallace Kehrer, 21 years old, chauffeur. Kehrer had been out of work and looking for employment, Mrs. Kehrer said. Considerable importance has been attached to the fact that Kehrer had remained unidentified so long, opinions differing over the theory that this lack of identification might signify fear to recognize him by persons of questionable character.

Edwin P. Fischer, the former metropolitan tennis star, who was detained in Hamilton, Ontario, in connection with his postcard warnings of the Wall Street explosion, arrived here this morning in custody of New York and Hamilton detectives. He was taken to police headquarters at once. Federal agents early today called at police headquarters and took into custody Alexander Brailovsky, Russian journalist, who was detained when he admitted he had been in the vicinity of Wall Street shortly after the explosion.

This was done notwithstanding a statement yesterday by William J. Flynn, head of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, that he attached no significance to the detention of Brailovsky and did not want him.

He today began the thirty-ninth day of his hunger strike. Lord Mayor MacSwiney last night wrote a message to Irishmen throughout the world on behalf of himself and the hunger strikers in Cork jail, in which he said: "If this cold blooded murder is put through, it will leave a stain on the name of England which has no parallel. It will raise before the English people whenever they offer another people friendship. "If we are to die, we are called to that even greater privilege and happiness of entering the company of those who died for Ireland. We forgive all those who are compassing our death. "This battle is being fought with clean hearts, purely for our country. We have made our peace with God and bear ill will toward no man."

The baby tried to crawl out from under the moving train, but the motorist, reaching between the wheels of each car as it passed, kept shoving her back from the rails. ELECTRIC PLANT CLOSES HALTS LOCAL INDUSTRIES

For Two Hours Monday Afternoon The Wheels of Industry Were Stopped By Cutting Off All Electric Current

Offer of Services of Licensed Engineer Cause Company to Again Turn On Current

City in Chaotic Confusion as Shut-down Came Without Previous Warning Thousands of Dollars worth of Perishable Property Endangered

Shortly after noon Monday, without previous intimation or announcement, The Washington Gas & Electric Company closed down its power plant and all motors and electric lights in the city were without current until two hours later when the plant was reopened after threats of court action had been made and two-thirds of the city's industries had been at a standstill for lack of power to operate machinery.

The shut-down, according to announcement at the company's office, was due to inability to obtain a licensed engineer, and information from state inspectors that fines would be assessed unless the company used licensed engineers.

Soon after the shut-down came the offices of the company were besieged with business men and other citizens vitally concerned over lack of power, and the services of a licensed engineer were immediately offered. The offer was declined.

Meanwhile demands for reopening the plant were becoming more insistent, because of heavy loss faced by several concerns should the power plant not resume operations.

Efforts to locate Manager Gross finally resulted in obtaining telephonic connections with him at Waverly, and after learning of the critical situation caused by suspension of power, he gave the word for resumption of the plant, with the same engineer in charge until another could be found. One of the engineers has been ill for ten days, it was announced.

The Sears & Nichols Company's canning plant was completely tied up with large quantities of perishable corn on hands.

The Fayette Canning plant was badly crippled and The P. Hagerty Shoe Company had 100 men out of work, while the Washington Metal Products Company's plant was at a standstill.

The Sunlight Creameries, with several thousand dollars' worth of perishables also was tied up.

Other firms were more or less crippled, and the telephone companies, using current from the power plant, intended installing Deleo power generators.

HERALD TIED UP

The Herald was completely tied up by lack of motive power to operate the machinery.

In order to give service, even the serious handicap of no electric power, arrangements were made for printing a small evening edition in Sabina, to which place the forms were hurried by automobile, only to be returned to this city upon word that the power plant would soon be in operation once more. It was then too late to increase the edition to its usual size.

ACTION CONDEMNED

Public opinion was universal in condemning the action taken by the power company in closing down the plant, indications being that no determined effort had been made to prevent such extreme action, as the services of expert licensed engineers were tendered when it became known that the plant had closed.

OFFICIALS CONFER

Mayor Dahl called the city attorney into consultation soon after the plant closed, and was arranging for legal action when the word was issued that the plant would resume soon after two o'clock.

CUSTOM HOUSE GIVEN WARNING BY POSTCARD

(By Associated Press)
New York, September 20.—A postcard warning that an attempt would be made tomorrow to blow up the customs house after the explosion in Wall Street Thursday was received in the mail today by Wm. B. Edwards, collector of internal revenue for this district.

The postcard signed, "A Citizen" was turned over to the custodian of the building by Mr. Edwards and the Department of Justice notified of its receipt.

The warning said the customs house already under heavy guard, would be blown up at 2:00 p. m. Mr. Edwards said a preliminary investigation had shown no evidence of a plot and he was inclined to regard the warning as a hoax.

A few minutes before the warning postcard had been received by "Big Bill" Edwards a former Princeton football star, Edwin E. W. Fischer, ex-tennis player, who sent warnings of the first explosion on the strength of an alleged telephonic tip had declared at police headquarters on his arrival here from Canada that "more will happen in the future."

"Unseen powers had communicated that to me," he said.

FLY SWARMS DISCLOSE PLACE OF BIG STILL

(By Associated Press)
Youngstown, O., September 20.—Hunting for a still on the farm of Harry Steuard, at North Jackson, officers saw a swarm of flies near the root of a tree at the bottom of a hill. Investigating they found a trap cleverly camouflaged with leaves leading to a cave where a big still and several kegs of liquor was discovered. An underground tunnel carried the smoke from the still through the hill to a vent which was also camouflaged. The officers say the "raisin flies" are only to be found where raisins are fermenting. Steuard was arrested.

LEAGUE BAR TO WAR SAYS PREMIER

Prime Minister of Sweden Declares Proof of Effectiveness Shown in Aland Island Disputes Asserts Participation of U. S. is Necessary.

(By Associated Press)
Paris, September 19.—The League of Nations, through its intervention in the Aland Islands question between Sweden and Finland, has proved its right to live as an effective means of preventing future wars, Hjalmar Branting, Prime Minister of Sweden, said today.

"I will not use the word 'war', but the situation between Sweden and Finland was tense," Premier Branting declared.

"Sweden has complete confidence in the league as a means of preventing future wars, and proof of this lies in the fact that we unhesitatingly placed our case in its hands."

"All that the league needs to make it a most effective and certain instrument of reducing future wars to the absolute minimum is the participation of the United States."

Contractor Declares, Tanlac Has Restored His Health After He Almost Gave Up Hope.

"If it hadn't been for Tanlac I don't believe I'd be alive today," said William F. Keys, 542 Lake street, Toledo, Ohio.

"Three years ago my stomach went back on me and other troubles set in. I had indigestion and lived almost entirely on liquid diet and even this disappeared with me. Dizzy, fainting spells often came on me suddenly. My kidneys were all out of order and my back hurt me so bad I could hardly move. Last year I underwent a painful operation, but that left me in a weaker condition than ever. I began to fall off in weight and during the past six months I have been unable to attend to my business hardly at all.

"But I am today a well, strong and healthy man and Tanlac is the cause of it all. I have gained sixteen pounds in weight and I feel as fine as I ever did in my life. My appetite can't be beat and I can eat anything and digest it perfectly. My kidneys are in good condition and my back never hurts me at all. I never have dizzy, fainting spells any more and I can attend to my business as well as I ever could."

MAKES ATTEMPT TO TAKE LIFE IN COUNTY JAIL

Dan Penwell, Charged With Burglary, Slashes Throat And Chest With Razor Blade and Is In Serious Condition.

Unconscious Man Found on Blood Covered Cot by Fellow Prisoner, Who Raises Alarm Early Sunday.

An unsuccessful attempt to end his life was made by Dan Penwell, 30, incarcerated in the county jail on a charge of burglary, by slashing his throat and chest with a safety razor blade sometime during the early hours of Sunday morning.

Penwell was found shortly after eight o'clock lying on his bunk covered with blood, by Simmy James, another prisoner, when his absence was noted at breakfast time.

When James stepped into Penwell's cell he found it empty but saw the floor spattered with blood. Stepping across the hallway he snatched the blankets from a form on the bunk and found Penwell literally covered with blood from head to foot while a red pool that had formed on the floor was creeping into the next cell and showed that immediate medical aid was necessary if the man's life was to be saved from death by loss of blood.

James pounded on the door of the jail until Sheriff Hall rushed in and saw the cause of his excitement. A call was sent for Dr. Roy Brown. Penwell's clothes were so saturated with blood that they were cut from him with a pair of scissors. His hair was a matted mass of hardened blood where he had clawed at his throat and then shoved his fingers through it.

Examination showed five gaping wounds. On either side the throat had been gashed and the jugular vein had scarcely been missed.

There were three long cuts over the heart varying from three to five inches in length.

Penwell had evidently lapsed into unconsciousness sometime before he was found and he could mutter nothing intelligible to the Sheriff and Deputy Nelson. He was not removed from the jail.

Sunday afternoon he had rallied and there was every indication that the prisoner would survive the attempted suicide.

Signs Of Lunacy

Prisoners in the jail with Penwell state that he had acted strangely Saturday afternoon and when evening came this was much more noticeable. He had declared to James that there was a squad of soldiers on the outside of the jail who had come to take him away and all of them carried blankets.

He was restless and paced the jail court until after all the others had gone to their bunks. James states that he last heard him muttering to himself. When Sheriff Hall visited the prisoners at eleven o'clock James was still up but there were no signs of disorder.

After performing the deed Penwell had walked from room to room and blood splices covered the white-washed jail and bloody hand prints were thick on the immaculate walls. He had climbed up to every window, blood stains on the bars plainly showing where he had hung while peering out.

Prisoners state that Penwell had threatened suicide and that he had often declared that before going to prison he would take his life.

OVERWORKED MEN NEED MORE STRENGTH

Here Is A Suggestion That Has Helped Others.

Men who are in good physical condition do not feel the strain of daily work. It is those who are under-nourished, and allow their blood to get into a thin, devitalized condition who are always tired and consider themselves overworked. It is not the work, but the condition of body, that makes them feel so.

There are many men here who can prove from personal experience that Vinol is just the remedy such men need. We know of many cases where it has quickly and permanently restored normal health with a quickening of energy, mainly because it enriches the blood and makes the food they eat nourish and build up bodily health.

FALL FESTIVAL CLEARED AWAY IN SHORT TIME

Workmen Busy Saturday Night And Sunday Morning Remove All Trace of Street Fair.

Over Sunday this city was transformed from one of gayest festivity to its regular routine business appearance and all things that had pertained to the Fall Festival had been removed by Sunday afternoon.

Not only had all equipment been removed but the streets had been made spotlessly clean, much cleaner than they had been for weeks. Members of the Knights of Pythias Lodge were detailed immediately after the festival closed Saturday night to start the brooms and by working through the remainder of the night and then having the burden taken up at dawn by a fresh squad the business district had reached normal appearance Sunday afternoon.

Just before closing their places of business Saturday night merchants donned overalls and in a short time had torn down their booths. The scene was something of circus order with tents being taken down and the crowds scurrying home while workmen shouted to one another and the trucks and wagons rattled down the streets.

When the crowds went home Saturday evening, confetti-covered and tired, gay colored streamers hung from telephone wires by thousands and litter covered all the streets. When they again came up town the streets were hardly recognizable.

MARKS DRIVEN FROM THE HILL IN TWO INNINGS

Ineffective pitching by Marks, who was bothered with a sore arm, made it easy for the Muldoons of Cincinnati to defeat the Washington Athletics 5 to 0 at Sunnyside Park Sunday afternoon.

Marks was not able to locate the plate and when he did the ball was pasted to all corners of the lot and even over the fence. The second home run of the season at the local park was made by Efflein when he lined one over the left field wall in the second inning.

Arsmeir opened the attack, by hitting sharply to right field but he was thrown out pitcher to shortstop when Efflein grounded. Turk line fled to Jones in center and then Huenfeld walked. This was disastrously followed by the second single off Bacon's bat and Huenfeld scored. Mollenkamp drew a pass and the inning was ended when Grote went out shortstop to first.

Marks was still uncivilized when he went on the hill the second inning and continued his wild tactics. Coyle worked for a free ticket and was sent down to second by Obermeir with a neat sacrifice. Arsmeir was safe when McCall allowed a hot grounder to get by. It was a mighty wallop that Efflein delivered when he sent the two runners on their way with a clean home run over the left field fence.

This was enough for Marks and Morris went to the hill from shortstop while Snag Emery disrobed his catching gear and filled the short field. Bill Turner went in to catch and he made a neat job of it during the remaining seven frames.

Then Morris began one of the best exhibitions of mastery hurling seen here this year. Two hits were all he granted. Turk grabbed one of what proved to be curiosities in the fifth and Arsmeir tripled down by right field flag pole in the ninth. He scored from third on Efflein's sacrifice. Morris finished the game by striking out Turk, one of the Muldoon's best hitters.

All this time the Athletics were striving to live up to the pace set by Morris and were trying to manufacture some runs with but small result. Double plays cut down their chances three times during the pastime.

A freak double play occurred in the third inning that has never been equalled in this part of the state. Nip Jones had singled for the second time during the afternoon and ascended to second on Doyle's hit to left. Chief McCall hit to the shortstop who threw wild to third attempting to ahead off Jones but the third sacker speared the ball by leaving the base. Jones believed the ball had gone wild and started for home but saw his mistake when the third baseman threw to the catcher. He headed back for third and there encountered Doyle who had come on around. Both Doyle and Nip reached the base together and then both left together, Nip starting for home while Doyle headed for second. While they stood thusly the shortstop rushed over, grabbed the ball and tagged the two runners out. It all happened so quickly that even Empire Flamm had to think a moment before rendering the decision.

Doyle Made Manager.

Just before the game Frank Doyle was notified that the managership of the team had been given to him by Tom Suttles, who has served as leader all season. Frank accepted and immediately made a change in the batting order that afterwards worked perfectly.

There were but ten players on hand when game time came and the team that took the field under Doyle was rather patched up. Morris was at short and when he went in to pitch Emery was forced to go to short while Bill Turner caught. Doyle says there will be some new material signed before next Sunday.

THE SILVER PLATE
The night comes down on the trees—old earth
And covers its many scars
With the misty folds of a purple veil,
Dotted and hemmed with stars;
And over the row of tall black pines,
A luminous crescent new,
The moon through the foam of the flying clouds
Sails gracefully into view.

It is a silver aeroplane
That voyages far and high
The cold blue ocean of boundless space
We used to call the sky;
And the man in the moon is an airman bold
Who fell with his plane one day,
And pilots the shimmering orb
Since then on its scheduled way.

Don't Buy Any Battery Until You Thoroughly
Investigate
That is the advice we offer to any car owner who is contemplating the purchase of a new battery. Why? Simply because we are not afraid to have him investigate the COOPER and others and then make his own comparison.
It is little short of folly for a man to walk in any buy an article like a storage battery without doing a little investigating of his own. He should never rely alone on what someone has told him, but should compare the facts about different makes and arrive at an intelligent conclusion as to which is the cheaper in point of period of service.
